WORLD BRIEFS

CHINA-US Washington envoys press China to cut excess steel production that is flooding global markets and to reach a diplomatic settlement to territorial disputes in the South China Sea, as the two sides open a high-level dialogue. More on p11

SPACE Astronauts opened the world's first inflatable space habitat yesterday and floated inside. NASA astronaut Jeffrey Williams swung open the door to the newly expanded chamber yesterday and was the first to enter. The room — called the Bigelow Activity Module, or BAM — arrived at the International Space Station in April, packed in the trunk of a capsule loaded with supplies. It was inflated just over a week ago.

THAILAND Four men who brutally attacked a British family vacationing in Thailand have been sentenced to two years in prison for the assault, which was captured on video and widely shared on social media. More on p15
